CITY AND COUNTY HIT GAMBLING

GOVERNOR'S ORDER WILL BE OBEYED

City Manager and Sheriff Confer on Plan of Procedure

BASEBALL POOLS ARE CLOSED

Bingham Holds All Forms of Gambling Are Included

A death knell of baseball pools and other petty forms of gambling, sounded by Governor Donahay in an official proclamation, was echoed in Allen county Monday, when city and county authorities moved to obey the executive edict.

Sheriff Harvey Crosson and Manager C. A. Bingham received copies of the order headed, "Proclamation against Gambling."

The edict of the governor calls on them officially to suppress sales of baseball pools and other games of chance or face impeachment.

PLAN AGREED UPON

Action was taken immediately by both officials to put the governor's order into effect. A short telephonic conference between the sheriff and city manager resulted in a decision to allow police to look after alleged violations in Lima, while the sheriff halts sales of pools in other parts of the county.

Sheriff Crosson visited Delphos and Spencer Monday morning, to close the sale of pools. Deputy Sheriff Al Smith was detailed to visit Beaverdam, Bluffton, Gomer, Lafayette and Harrod.

By noon notices had been served on all known places selling pools in the county outside of Lima to destroy dice, cards and punchboards were included, as coming within the meaning of Gov. Donahay's order.

Manager C. A. Bingham, following the receipt of the proclamation, announced he would order that the police department follow out the edict to the letter. There is no way of avoiding the issue, he said.

HITS ALL GAMBLING

Bingham construed the order to mean that not only baseball pools must go, but every other form and variety of gambling is included.

He held a short conference with Chief of Police T. A. Lanker, and gave the latter instructions to close the games.

Lanker announced he will instruct officers to stop the sale of the pools Monday afternoon. No official order to the department had been issued at noon. The instructions given Lanker by Manager Bingham are to make the enforcement 100 per cent effective.

Loss of revenue derived from sale of pools and shaking dice for cigars will be a severe blow to pool halls, cigar stands and soft drink places, proprietors declared Monday.

KILLED IN WRECK

New York Picnic Train's Engineer Scalded to Death

NEW YORK — (United Press) — Scalding in clouds of live steam, Hugh Kirk, engineer of a homeward bound "picnic train" wrecked in Van Cortlandt Park, New York, warned rescuers away.

"I am going to die anyway," he said, "please stand back, this boiler is liable to explode any minute."

One man crawled into the cab and attempted to extricate the engineer, but failed. He finally retreated, with blistered hands and face.

Firemen finally removed Kirk, but he died at a hospital a few minutes later. Nine passengers were slightly injured. The wreck occurred on the edge of the municipal rail tracks and scores of Sunday riders helped the passengers. A timber thrown across the rails by boys playing train bandits, is believed to have caused the wreck.

2 MILLIONS ON STRIKE IN RUHR

Mining Thruout District Is Completely Tied Up—Idleness Is Forced at Point of Bayonet by Reds—Thousands of Metal Workers Quit

(Bulletin) — (United Press) — French officials are moving to stop the spreading strikes in the Ruhr, according to word received here today.

General Degoutte is said to have ordered every railroad man thruout the Ruhr region to return to their jobs within two days or be banished from the district.

BERLIN — (Associated Press) — Two million miners and tens of thousands of metal workers are now on strike in the Ruhr, according to a special despatch to the Vossische Zeitung. Although these figures are probably overestimated, it is believed that undoubtedly every mine center in the Ruhr is idle as a result of the tactics of the Communists who are visiting the pits and forcibly ejecting the workers.

A vote taken in the Bochum district showed that a majority of the miners favored resumption of work but Communist pickets are stationed at some of the pits with fixed bayonets to prevent the miners from descending.

DUESSELDORF — (United Press) — With 13 dead in week-end riots in the Ruhr, reports thruout the valley today indicated the tension is lessening at least for the moment. In Bochum, where communists besieged the municipal officials and assumed practical control of the city, the Self-Defense League succeeded in regaining the upper hand. French in Essen have seized several million paper marks following repeated refusal of German officials to pay certain occupational expenses.

Workers held peaceful demonstrations in many cities during the night.

NEW YORK DEFIED BY KLANSMEN

Will Fight Anti-Klan Law to Finish, They Assert

NEW YORK — (Associated Press) — Refusing to consider seriously the challenges reported to have been hurled by Ku Klux Klan leaders at a dozen meetings thruout the state yesterday, officials declared today they were ready to begin enforcing the state anti-klan law when it becomes effective next Saturday.

The law forbids members of secret organizations from wearing disguises in public and orders that the names of their members be recorded at Albany.

Then names of Klan officers in the principal chapters in New York and other cities are already known as are most of the Klan meeting places, according to local officials. They predict there will be little difficulty in enforcing the filing of the names of all members with the state.

The attitude of the Klan toward the anti-mask bill was expressed by the king kleeagle, who gave the name of Major Johnson, U. S. A., retired, before 8,000 members of the order and 1,287 novitiates at Eastport at a meeting which lasted until yesterday morning.

The Klan declared "and would fight to the last breath" to keep the names of klan members secret. Similar defies were uttered by klan officials at other meetings, to some of which reporters were invited.

STATUE DEMOLISHED BY FORMER SERVICE MEN

YORK, Pa. — Former service men early today demolished the statue of "Winged Victory" which was placed in front of the court house during the Victory loan drive in 1919. The statue, made of plaster, had fallen into a state of disrepair and the county commissioners refused to mend it. War veterans announced several days ago that they would refuse to march past the statue on Memorial Day if it was not repaired. No attention apparently was given to this threat and today a group of war veterans marched to the court house. Using ropes and chains they pulled the statue off its base and it broke into pieces.

10,000 TAUGHT BY PROFESSOR

Ohio Instructor Rounds Out Half Century in Service

COLUMBUS — (Associated Press) — A half-century of teaching and with no thought of retiring—such is the record of Professor George W. McCord of the department of mathematics at Ohio State University, the oldest member of Ohio's State's faculty in point of service.

"I wouldn't know what to do with myself if I retired," he declared in an answer to a question. In his half century of teaching, probably more than 10,000 students have been members of his classes. The university student of today is just as capable as that of five decades ago, Professor McCord believes. He sees, however, in the many distractions about the average campus the cause of so many students failing to go on to graduation.

"Too many students these days," he said, "are content to just 'get thru'."

Teaching, Professor McCord declared, never has grown monotonous for him. There is constant inspiration, he asserted, in contact with young minds eager to learn.

When Professor McCord first came to Ohio State—in 1882—the faculty was small and the students few. The university was just beginning to emerge from the "little college" in the corn field stage. Commencement was held in a circus tent on the campus. Fraternity initiations consisted of "borrowing" animal cages from a circus which put in the "off" season across the river and giving neophytes a ride thru downtown Columbus.

A graduate of Bethany College, Bethany, W. Va., in 1872, Professor McCord taught near Pittsburgh and in Chicago, Cleveland and Columbus schools before coming to Ohio State.

DES MOINES, Ia. — Charging that a student masked mob kidnaped him, beat his wife, padlocked him, and applied a coat of molasses, glue feathers, Gordon Holler, 18, Omaha freshman at Des Moines University, today sought to invoke Iowa's anti-mask law against two of his alleged assailants.

Holler filed charges of assault and battery at the time against William Eaton, 20, and William Clifton, 20, whom he accuses of leading the mob.

The reason for the attack, Holler said, was told that he "went with too many girls and was not complying with school regulations."

In addition to the seven who met death, all of whom were Detroiters, a dozen or more passengers of the interurban were cut by broken automobile that had stalled. They jumped from the car after it crashed into the automobile. 'TEACH MOTHER IN INDIAN HOME'

First Woman Inspector Tells How To Improve Race

SANTEE, N. M., (Special)—While we are trying to protect the Indian and encourage him toward a better mode of living, the cry is hard—

"Help the women and children first!"

It comes from Mrs. Otero Warren of this city, first woman to be appointed inspector of the Indians by the United States government.

"In preserving the Indians and adjusting them to modern ways," says Mrs. Warren, "the greatest need is to educate the mothers and create better conditions in the homes. Few Indian mothers have any ideas of modern methods of hygiene or know any of the scientific ways of caring for their babies. We must teach them what we have learned."

Another need she sees is that of securing closer co-operation between the school and the home.

"The defect in the modern system of educating the Indian is that it alienates him from his home, ties and creates a breach between the older and younger generation," she continues. "The Indian child trained in modern schools has little in common with his parents when he finishes."

"He must be taught to appreciate the history and traditions of his own race and thus inspired to continue the native arts of his own people as well as acquire a new type of learning."

"When he finishes school he should feel closer to his own people and desire to help them. Leaders and teachers should be developed from their own race."

"Another need is to create markets for the products of the Indian—for his baskets, pottery, rugs and ornaments. Then he will continue to make them and perfect them."

"And finally we must teach the Indian to become self-supporting and ready and anxious to assume the responsibilities of citizenship as soon as he can."

WEATHERMAN IS IN DUMPS

There's an old saying that when the gods would destroy they first make mad. Somebody must have been working on the weatherman along that line, considering his antics thus far this spring.

Saturday he gave ample evidence of experiencing a change of heart and serving conditions more in keeping with the season, but before the day was done on Sunday he had lapsed into his old habit of giving folks the cold shoulder.

Light overcoats carefully laid away during the week, but before the day was done on Sunday he had lapsed into his old habit of giving folks the cold shoulder.

Generally fair tonight and Tuesday, light change in temperature. It's the same old story. Chilly conditions are to continue. Heavy rains somewhere near, probably, but not for Lima. Forecasts of precipitation for Sunday failed.

Most everyone will hope the forecast will be good to Lima on Wednesday and provide the right sort of conditions for a proper observance of Decoration day.

"Sheik" Traces Dancing Craze To Prohibition

CLEVELAND — (Special)—The dancing craze now sweeping the country is, in the opinion of Rodolph Valentino, but a reaction to prohibition.

In fact, to use his own words: "Dancing in itself is a mild form of intoxication."

Valentino was interviewed in his private car, shunted on a sidetrack in Union Station.

He seemed so comfortable. Before him on a Pullman "table" was a typewriter. He had half finished a letter. About him he had thrown a bathrobe, solid black, with a wide orange stripe.

We plunged immediately into the subject of dancing. And the first fact of importance learned was that within a short time an effort is to be made by Rodolph to teach an entire country to dance the tango.

Fact! Valentino, when he had finished picturizing "The Four Horsemen," discovered that he had again whetted the public's appetite for the tango, but there he left them dangling. They couldn't dance it. It was not as easy as the fox-trot, and apparently few teachers were capable of making themselves understood.

"So now," he said, "I'm going to write a book in which I not only will describe the dance, but will illustrate it with diagrams and so forth. It will not exactly be a revival of the tango. The tango in nine-tenths of the country never even was introduced in the first place. Only in New York and some other large cities was it danced, and then it was a half-tango, half-fox-trot."

"The tango is no better than any other dance, even from a health viewpoint. All dances are health-giving. Yes, I take quite a delight in modern jazz. But there is one dance above all that I like, and everyone likes, and that is the waltz. That will always live."

"How long will the present craze last? At least as long as prohibition, and that is a long time. Dancing serves as an incentive, or rather an outlet, for people's desire for recreation. Of course you can overdo anything. I believe that marathon dancing was a mild form of insanity."

RICH, IN PRISON

Millionaire Vineyardist Does Not Recognize Prohibition

OAKLAND, Calif. — (Special.)—An oft-expressed belief of that "millionaires do not go to jail," is shattered by Theodore Gier of this city.

Gier, 50, millionaire vineyardist, is serving 90 days in Alameda county prison for violation of prohibition laws.

But Gier is unrepentant. "For years," he says, "the government encouraged me in my business and then, overnight they tried to take it away from me. In a case like that, what would a man do?"

The wealthy grape-grower has entertained two presidents of the United States and owns a decoration bestowed by the former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany.

"How am I a lawbreaker?" he asks. "The prohibition law is really not a law at all; it is just something that the minority slipped on the majority."

FASTEST SHIP ON SEA FIGHTER

Uncle Sam Tests Out Scout Cruiser off Maine

PHILADELPHIA — (Special.)—The fastest ship afloat isn't the speedy Mauretania, nor one of those trim little navy destroyers. It's the Richmond, a 7000-ton steel fighting machine that is as big as many trans-Atlantic liners.

The United States navy has just put this new light cruiser through her paces off the Maine coast. The Richmond shattered all existing navy records for ships above the destroyer class. The high speed was 34.48 knots—nearly 40 miles an hour.

The Richmond, first of 10 light cruisers now building, came from the Cramp shipbuilding yards in Philadelphia. The Omaha is being put in commission on the Pacific coast and some of the others will be the Milwaukee, Detroit, Trenton and Concord.

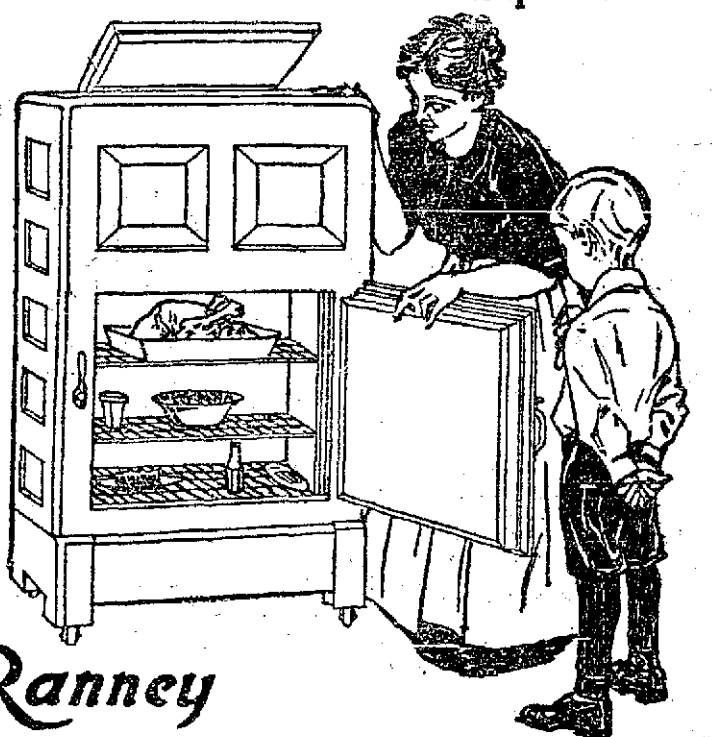

These graceful speed ships look scarcely larger than destroyers, but they are 550 feet long, almost as long as such transatlantic liners as the new Resolute and Reliance. They carry batteries of twelve 6-inch guns and 10 torpedo tubes, as well as powerful radio equipment and two seaplanes for scouting and vice. Their mastsheads are the highest in the world, being 260 feet from mainmast to waterline.

Some small destroyers have been known to touch 35 knots an hour, but the Richmond's performance in a series of runs in the open seas marks a new speed era for big ships. Observers figured after the tests that the Richmond could go from New York to Porto Rico in 48 hours and could cross the Atlantic within four days, even by sacrificing some speed to make her fuel supply last. The record crossing was made by the Mauretania in 1910 in four days, 16 hours and 41 minutes. The Mauretania averages from 25 to 27 knots an hour.

Prominent Business Man Tells of Wealthy Father's Gift

BEQUEATHED RIGHT TO WORK

Refused to "Curse" His Offspring With Money

(BY R. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK — (Special) — How would you like to be told, "I am going to leave you $50,000,000?" That was what his father told Ed Wolff, now general sales manager of the David Adler and Sons clothing company of Milwaukee when a youth of 18. Mr. Wolff has been told the following to an intimate friend who happened to be a friend of mine and he has just told me about it.

"I am the son of a rich father. He came to this country with $13. He often told us. He educated me until I was 18 years old and then he said, 'Now, son, you know that I have made a great deal of money.'"

"Yes, sir."

"You know it is customary for wealthy men to leave their sons a part of their wealth as an inheritance."

"Yes, sir."

"Well, possibly you feel that you would be well off on my death if I left you say $25,000 or $50,000, wouldn't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I am going to do better than that. I am going to leave you fifty millions of dollars. Think of it—fifty millions—that is to say there will be fifty millions of dollars available for you in this country when I die. All you'll have to do is to go out and get it. When I die I shall leave my sons not one penny. Money that the owner doesn't earn is a curse. I shan't curse a son of mine. Now, son, hustle."

To this Mr. Wolff added:

"I am more than ever convinced that the best inheritance for every healthy man is fifty millions of dollars—collectible by the legatees from the world at large, if he is man enough to get it."

Don't you agree?

I hear that an important ship- ping merger is under way. Although steamship companies have been enriched by the many fares collected from more or less prominent Britons who have been pouring into this country to enlighten us on various subjects, a very cordial reception doubtless will be accorded the such visitor scheduled for arrival in the fall. Namely, ex-Prime Minister David Lloyd George. Americans love a fighter, whether he be a statesman like Roosevelt, a pugilist like Dempsey, a soldier like Pershing or Joffre, or a politician like Lloyd George. Lloyd George is one of the cleverest catch as catch can debaters and speakers in public life today. He isn't afraid to say what he thinks. And he isn't afraid to think. He is Britain's Roosevelt.

Wall Street, like everything else in this imperfect world, has its faults. But Wall Street hasn't all the faults attributed to it. Isn't there a good deal of justice and truth in the following communication:

"Did you ever notice how many things seem to happen to 'brokers' in the newspaper headlines? The indiscriminate use of this term appears to be growing. When a man is caught in some compromising position, or becomes involved in some doubtful transaction, and his business connections are vague, he is almost invariably characterized as a 'broker.'"

"This works a real hardship to a worthy and important class of business men. Can't we do something to minimize or abolish it?"

"Now, I know there are real estate brokers and insurance brokers and brokers in every kind of commodity and service, ad infinitum. And I admit that anybody who brings buyer and seller together comes within the dictionary definition of a broker."

"But to the public—the great unthinking public—'broker' means a 'Wall Street stock broker.' Every time they read a headline such as 'broker caught in apartment raid' the impression is created anew that 'Wall Street' and all its works are rotten. It may be that the news item explains later that the 'broker' was an insurance broker or an automobile tire broker but a very large proportion of newspaper readers merely skim the headlines of the general news and the impression remains even in the case of more careful readers."

"And why 'brokers' at all? It is really no more characteristic than 'retailer' or 'jobber' and these terms are seldom if ever used."

"Will you not be good enough to bring attention to this, in the effort to lessen this evil and thus serve the ends of better business?"

Apparently things are not always what they seem. One of the parties to a case before the Federal Trade Commission in defending their right to use the term "English broadcloth" submitted this interesting statement:

"Paris Garters are not manufactured in or imported from Paris. 'Persian lambs' is not a fur manufactured in or imported from Persia. Irish poplin does not represent exclusively poplin manufactured in or imported from Ireland. 'Canton crepe' does not represent exclusively crepe manufactured in or imported from either Canton, China or even Canton, Ohio. 'Russian crepe' does not represent exclusively crepe manufactured in or imported from Russia, as it was formerly constituted or under the present bolshevik regime. 'Hudson Seal' neither represents (exclusively) fur manufactured from the skin of seals, nor any kind of skin or seal coming from Hudson bay. 'Palm Beach suits' are manufactured almost exclusively in the Northeastern States. 'Manila paper' does not come exclusively from Manila. 'German silver' is neither imported from Germany, nor contains any silver. 'English mustard' is not manufactured or imported from England. Not all 'Swiss cheese' is imported from Switzerland. Much of the 'Virginia ham' comes from the Chicago stock yards. Not all of the 'Boston beans' are grown or prepared in Boston. The 'Spanish omelet' sold in restaurants in many of the states, is not prepared in, nor do any of its ingredients come from Spain exclusively. And finally, 'Bronx cocktails' which were served in that ancient institution known as a 'saloon' in all of the states, inclusive of the District of Columbia, were neither mixed, manufactured or imported from the Bronx exclusively."

It would be rash to assume that prices of stocks and bonds and commodities and everything else, so definitely headed downwards.

LIMA LADY COULD HARDLY WALK

SHE PRAISES PLANT JUICE

"I can truthfully say that your Plant Juice medicine did wonders for me and I feel that it has completely relieved my trouble," said Mrs. Laura Taylor, of 656 Dingle-dine avenue, Lima, while talking with The Plant Juice Man a few days ago at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, where large crowds of local people are calling daily.

"For the last five years I had been having attacks of bloating which got so bad at times that it was hard for me to take a good breath. I also suffered with my knees swelling and would have puffs on my knees as large as a good sized egg. It got so that it was hard for me to walk and for a time, the only way I could get around was by pushing a chair in front of me. Finally, I got so bad that I had to go to bed."

"I read about your Plant Juice in the papers and started taking it and began to feel better almost immediately. I have now been relieved of those bloating spells and the swelling of my limbs has disappeared and I can walk now as good as I ever could. I can do my work and am in better condition than for years."

"I had tried many other medicines without results but I can truthfully say that your Plant Juice did wonders for me and has completely relieved my trouble."

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office. —Adv.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mul-sified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is expensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mul-sified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure and ask for "Mul-sified" coconut oil shampoo. —Adv.

LIMA'S HOME BUILDING

CLAIMS made in these columns in time past since the last enumeration in 1920 concerning building progress in Lima, have been accepted by a considerable number of persons as extravagant.

Proof that hundreds of new homes have been erected and that hundreds of new families have located here since that time is afforded unmistakably thru various agencies in the absence of an authorized census. The most emphatic of these sources of proof and the most convincing lies in the report made by Postmaster A. E. Gale concerning the number of new homes erected, or on which work has been started, since January 1 of the present year.

A checkup of the city, made for the purpose of determining the border lines of mail delivery districts after July 1, reveals that new construction has been started this year on more than 500 lots. As a consequence of this activity and the inflow of added families, mail carriers are required to make 229 more stops on routes than existed in November of 1922. These figures are authoritative.

Two more mail carriers must be added to the number now in the service, Gale has announced, bringing the total up to 28 for the entire city. Building is also bringing free carrier service to much new territory not heretofore served, by reason of the fact that more than 50 per cent of many blocks is being built up. Service cannot be provided in a block unless 50 per cent of the lots are occupied by homes.

Lima is a growing city. The assertion that more than 1,000 new homes have been erected here since 1920 is not in the least extravagant.

HERE COMES HELP

DON'T "kid" the youngsters who, graduating this year from high school or college, start out into the world with sure confidence that they are going to take charge of things and save the situation on short notice.

All of us have to go thru that period of youthful enthusiasm. And it's a good thing. Looking back, the older generation realize that their exuberant start gave them momentum without which they might have weakened and fallen by the wayside.

Go ahead, you graduates! You're the hope of the world. And the enthused, confident newcomer in the battle of life can take wallops that would make an old-timer go down for the count.

MAYBE, after all, the 1923 graduates are right in their conviction that they are going to save the world.

The world certainly can stand a lot of saving. And the re-enforcements pouring from the schools this year are badly needed. The "regulars" are in mud to their necks and wavering.

Looking the world over, most of us realize that the present generation had made pretty much of a failure of things. We've almost destroyed a civilization built up painfully and laboriously thru thousands of years. The rising generation will not have to do much of a job to beat our pitiful record. All set, youngsters! Bets on you! Over the top!

MOST of you graduates have a very definite idea of what you want to accomplish in life. Try to keep your ideals strong, your courage high, your hearts young.

You'll have temporary setbacks—many of them. They are sent to develop your character and brain, much like muscles in a gymnasium. Hew to the line. Keep headed for your goal. Don't let any circumstance or any person discourage you from your original purpose.

Above all, ignore the cynics. All of them are failures of one degree or another. That's what made them into failures—cynicism, the curdled philosophy of a life that really is well worth living if we are worthy of living.

Guard your high motives. The world never has enough of ideals. At the end of the battle you will know that ideals are fed to humanity from only two sources—very old age, just finishing the fight . . . and youth, the newcomer, the re-enforcements for the weakening line of progress.

Take two auto licenses. Place end to end. Now, they look like recent big league baseball scores.

AND EVERYTHING NICE

Human milk contains about 7 per cent of sugar (lactose or "milk sugar"); cow's milk contains only about 4 per cent of lactose. The bambino evidently needs more sugar than the calf needs. But cow's milk contains about 3 1-2 per cent of proteins (the curd part) as compared with only 1 1-2 to 2 per cent of proteins in human milk. The calf evidently has more building to do. The proportion of fat in human milk and in cow's milk are about the same, say 4 per cent.

The first requirement in modifying cow's milk for the feeding of a young baby is dilution with water, in order to diminish the proportion or strength of the curd part, and bring it down to something like the protein strength of human milk. But when cow's milk thus reduced with water, say half and half, the proportion of fat and sugar in it is also reduced. We don't wanna cheat the baby out of his fair rations, so we add some sugar to the food mixture to bring the proportion of sugar up to something like that in human milk. Either lactose (sugar of milk) may be used or, if that is too expensive, ordinary cane sugar will serve very well for most babies. Likewise we don't mean to rob the baby of his proper ration of fat which carries the vitamin of the milk. So we also add to the food mixture some fresh cream or top milk to bring the proportion of fat in the formula up to something like that of human milk.

Another important point of difference between human milk and cow's milk, which must be taken into consideration in the feeding of the baby, is that the protein of cow's milk, besides being two or three times stronger than the amount in human milk (the calf grows just twice as fast as the bambino does), consists chiefly of casein, which curdles in large, tough curds in the process of digestion, whereas the protein of human milk is chiefly lactalbumin, which curdles in small, flocculent curds in the normal process of digestion in the baby's stomach.

So when the calf says "Baa-haa" he means "Don't be alarmed, for I've got plenty of rennin in my stomach and just the right kind of pancreatic juice to take care of dem curds."

The protein problem is taken care of, in modifying cow's milk for infant feeding, not only by reducing the milk, but also by various procedures which prevent the formation of large tough curds. These procedures serve that purpose: Boiling cow's milk for five minutes; adding such alkalis as lime water or milk of magnesia; using

Brushing teeth does not protect them if you leave a film. Film is the teeth's great enemy—the cause of most tooth troubles. And very few escaped those troubles under former brushing methods.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it.

Food stains, etc., discolor film. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That is why teeth lose luster. Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. And that is alarmingly common.

Easy, effective ways
Dental science has now found ways to combat that film. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was perfected to apply those methods daily.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. Its use has spread the world over, largely by dental advice. Careful people of some 50 nations are employing it today.

Other unique effects
Dental research also found two other things essential, because of deficiencies often found in modern diets. So Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That

The blue of the sky and the breeze,
The bud and the leaf of the tree,
The ripple of silvery streams,
Glad youth with its hopes and its dreams,
The flash of the dew on the grass—
All these shall remain when we pass.

Forever the young man shall sigh
When she that he loves passes by;
The stars shall shine down on the lane
Where love tells its story again;
The laughter of babes shall be sweet,
The brook and the ocean shall meet,
And centuries after we're gone
The rose shall be blossoming on.

Sorrow shall come with the night,
Joy with the days that are bright,
Men shall rejoice in their own
Long after our spirits have flown;
They shall exult in success,
And grieve at the touch of distress,
The nations shall flourish and wage
The beauties of life shall remain.

Avoid Harmful Grit
Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film cleanser which contains harsh grit.

Go Get Your Test

Then watch its effect on film. See the prettier teeth

If you don't know this new way of teeth cleaning, accept this offer. Make this delightful test. Learn how much this method means to you and yours.

Millions now employ it. You see the results in glistening teeth wherever you look today. All the world over it is bringing to people a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

Go compare this new way with the old and watch the changes which come in a week.

You must fight film

Brushing teeth does not protect them if you leave a film. Film is the teeth's great enemy—the cause of most tooth troubles. And very few escaped those troubles under former brushing methods.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it.

Food stains, etc., discolor film. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That is why teeth lose luster. Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. And that is alarmingly common.

Easy, effective ways

Dental science has now found ways to combat that film. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was perfected to apply those methods daily.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. Its use has spread the world over, largely by dental advice. Careful people of some 50 nations are employing it today.

Other unique effects

Dental research also found two other things essential, because of deficiencies often found in modern diets. So Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Those are Nature's great tooth-protecting agents in the mouth. Any soapy tooth paste decreases their power. Pepsodent, with every use, gives them manifold effect. Thus it is an effective aid in the war on acid and on starch.

All the world over dentists urge its use.

Under old methods, tooth troubles were constantly increasing. They were almost universal. Most people's teeth were clouded more or less. Pyorrhea—that dread disease—attacked a large percentage.

So leading dentists everywhere now urge this fight on film. All the world over Pepsodent is bringing a new dental era.

Pepsodent results are quick and apparent. They will be a revelation to you. Once see and feel them and you will never go without them.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects.

Our book explains the reason for each unique result. Go learn what these benefits mean. Cut out coupon now.

Calvin Gray, living in Dallas at the exclusive hotel, is the agency of the famous Gray family. Gray falls in love with a girl named Allie. The girl's father, Mr. Gray, is a very rich man. Gray falls in love with Allie. The girl's father, Mr. Gray, is a very rich man. Gray falls in love with Allie. The girl's father, Mr. Gray, is a very rich man.

There was a stifle from within, the door was slowly opened by a bent, pathetic figure of grief. "Allie!" Gray cried, and he held out his arms.

Perhaps it was his virile personality, radiating confidence, security, or perhaps it was Gus Briskow's shining face that told the story; whatever the fact, Mrs. Briskow, who had been waiting in the hall, came running into those open arms and laid her head upon Gray's breast.

"Oh-h-h! We ain't goin' away!" she said. "We ain't goin' away!" "Of course not. Gus misunderstands. The manager merely wanted you to move into a larger, finer suit, and he is positively distressed at the thought of your leaving. The poor man is dashing about collecting an armful of roses for you and Allie. He wants to come in person and apologize."

There was another sound and Gray looking up to see Allie standing in the doorway to her bedroom; with one hand she clutched the jamb, the other was pressed to her bosom, she was staring at him as at an apparition.

It was several hours later. In the quiet of the new suite, a spacious, sunny room, fragrant with flowers and cheerful with brilliant crotonas, Gray and Briskow were talking. Allie and her mother could be seen in their bedrooms, putting away the last of their belongings. Gray's eyes had been drawn, at frequent intervals, to the younger woman, to the change in her became the more amazing the more he observed her.

Gray sent the father away on some pretext, finally; then he called to Allie: "Come in here and talk to me. I am a guest and I demand entertainment." He observed with what approval her carriage as she entered the room and accepted the chair he offered her. Faint trace of the master's daughter here. "I want a good chance to look at you."

"Now then, do you like Mrs. Briskow?"

Allie nodded. "I like her, but—"

"Pattern for today."

hate her. She makes me feel awful mad because she can't understand that I ain't—I am not mad at her, but at myself. I don't hardly know how to explain it. If I was her I'd hate me, like I do."

"Would you like to have her remain?"

"Oh, I would! She knows everything, and she makes me learn. But"

"Nothing simpler. I merely showed Mr. What's-his-name that he was making an ass of himself. I've spent a lifetime here; know the owners, too. Nice chap, that manager, but he has no business running a hotel, and I so informed him. The speaker laid a finger upon his lips; his eyes were dancing. He knickered sharply at the Briskow door and cried, "Baggage ready, please."

"We've been having supper in our rooms lately," she told him, when they returned at dark. "You're going to eat with us, ain't-aren't you?"

"I am, to be sure. But not in four rooms," he declared. "You'd rather do exactly what would please me, now, wouldn't you?"

"Yes sir."

"Then run along and put on that dinner dress that I liked best. And tell Ma to look her prettiest, too. We'll not spoil this day."

It was seven-thirty when Gray, in evening dress, appeared at the Briskow suite. Allie told herself there had never been a man so handsome, so distinguished, so Godlike as he.

Allie wore an expensive black lace dress, sleeveless and sufficiently low in neck to display her charms. "Plain! A little too somber," Gray declared. "She can afford colors, ornaments. Jove! I'd like some time to see her in something Oriental, something barbaric. The next time I'm in New York I'll select a gown—"

Mrs. Briskow entered at the moment, greatly flustered and extremely self-conscious, and here, certainly, was no lack of ornamentation or of color. Ma wore all her jewelry, and her dress was an elaborate creation of brilliant jade green, from one shoulder of which depended a filmy streamer of green chiffon. In her desire to gild the life she had knotted a Roman scarf about her waist—a scarf of many colors, of red, of yellow, of purple, of blue, of orange—a very spectrum of vivid stripes, and it utterly ruined her.

"You said to look my nicest," she bubbled, "so I done the best I could."

"You are lovely both of you, but—this is my party, isn't it? I can do anything I please?" Gray looked from one to the other in eager inquiry. "Then let me fix you my way. Ma Briskow your face is too sweet, too gentle, to be spoiled. Your charm is in your simplicity. Here, I have it!"

With swift impetuosity he untied the scarf and whipped it from Ma's waist. "Watch me now and you'll see I'm right." With his penknife he cut the threads that held the chiffon streamer in place and removed it. "Voilà! Even so little, and we see an adorable motherly person, richly but unostentatiously gowned. Don't you agree with me?"

Without pausing for an answer, he wheeled upon the daughter. Around Allie's hips he flung the scarf, drew it snug and smooth, then knotted it. Next he snatched the length of chiffon and bound it about her head. His touch was deft and certain; a moment and it had been fashioned to suit him.

This proved to be an evening when people really did turn their heads as the Briskows were shown to their table, but for once Allie suffered no embarrassment, for she felt sure they were looking at Calvin Gray, and in the shining glory of his presence she knew that she and her parents were invisible.

It was sure the sort of situation in which Gray appeared to best advantage, so he talked incessantly during the meal, and in a key that kept his companions unconscious of their surroundings. On their way out they passed the entrance to the ballroom and paused to look in. The beat of the music swayed Allie unconsciously; then, before she knew it, Gray's arm swung around her waist and he was guiding her out upon the floor.

About midnight Calvin Gray strolled outdoors for a breath of fresh air before retiring. He glowed with the consciousness of a worthy deed well done. He had come to the Notch expecting to spend one night, but events of the last few hours had induced him to change his plans and he now made up his mind to stay several days.

TELEGRAM FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO HER SISTER, LESLIE PRESCOTT

Have you forgotten you have a sister? You didn't even ask mother to let me go to England, but I'm going just the same. You are not mad, are you Les, over my last letter?

Lovingly, ALICE.

Letter from Leslie Prescott to Alice Hamilton.

MY DEAR LITTLE SISTER: I haven't written you before because I have been very much concerned in my own affairs and those of poor Sally Atherton, of whose tragic marriage you have probably heard. Besides, I wanted to carefully turn the accusations contained in your port missive over in my mind before I tried in any way to right your mistaken ideas.

You hurt me very much, Alice, when you intimated that because I was married I didn't belong in my father's house that I had no more importance in its affairs.

I confess at the time I almost sent your letter to mother, asking if it were true but I thought better of it for I came to the conclusion that it was just one of your wild breaks and that you didn't really mean it. I am sure, now that I have received your night wire, that you did not mean it.

I hope you will not put it down to any dog-in-the-manger attitude when I again say to you that I think you have become too chummy with Karl. Why, child, he is nearly old enough to be your father. He is even older than Jack and much older than I.

I know it is not unusual for little girls of your age to get what they call "a crush" on a much older man. In time, if this is kept up, it may become disastrous to the girl and at least very annoying to the man in question.

I know, of course, that you have very exaggerated and romantic ideas about Karl and me and I expect that you have foolishly constituted yourself a comforter for him, for the way you feel I have treated him. Please do not take it upon yourself, dear, to atone for my faults.

Don't worry, my child. Karl Whitnev is perfectly able to take care of himself. I expect you are boring him to death with your childish attentions.

I am very glad that father and mother have decided to let you go abroad for naturally you will meet many young girls and boys of your own age over there and will probably forget all about your altruistic notions in regard to Karl.

I am going to write Karl a letter if you insist upon making him, and mother think it is his duty to follow you abroad. I shall try to dissuade him from going to England this year and, if you are right for your surmises that I still have great influence with him, you will have to get along over there without "poor Karl," my dear.

Every time I wear my pearl beads someone admires them extravagantly. If you know where they came from abroad, I wish you would get another string for me to give to Beatrice Grimshaw. She is crazy about them and I almost told her the other night that, if you could not find another string, I would divide mine with her.

Lovingly, LESLIE.

Sure Way To Get Rid Of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Adv.

SHORT SHAVINGS

Mrs. Ralph Cochran, Spencerville, R. D. 5, writes that while she was hoeing a flower bed, her son John asked her the name of a certain plant. She replied that it was a poppy.

After looking at some other plants, he asked, pointing to one, "Mamma is this another father?"

Walter Kishman makes a net of a large Holstein bull on his farm at Brownhelm.

While leading the bull from a barn to a watering trough the animal broke into a corn field.

Kishman chased it. Then the situation was varied by the bull chasing Kishman.

"After being pursued for 10 minutes about the corn field," he says, "I was glad to jump the fence and quit."

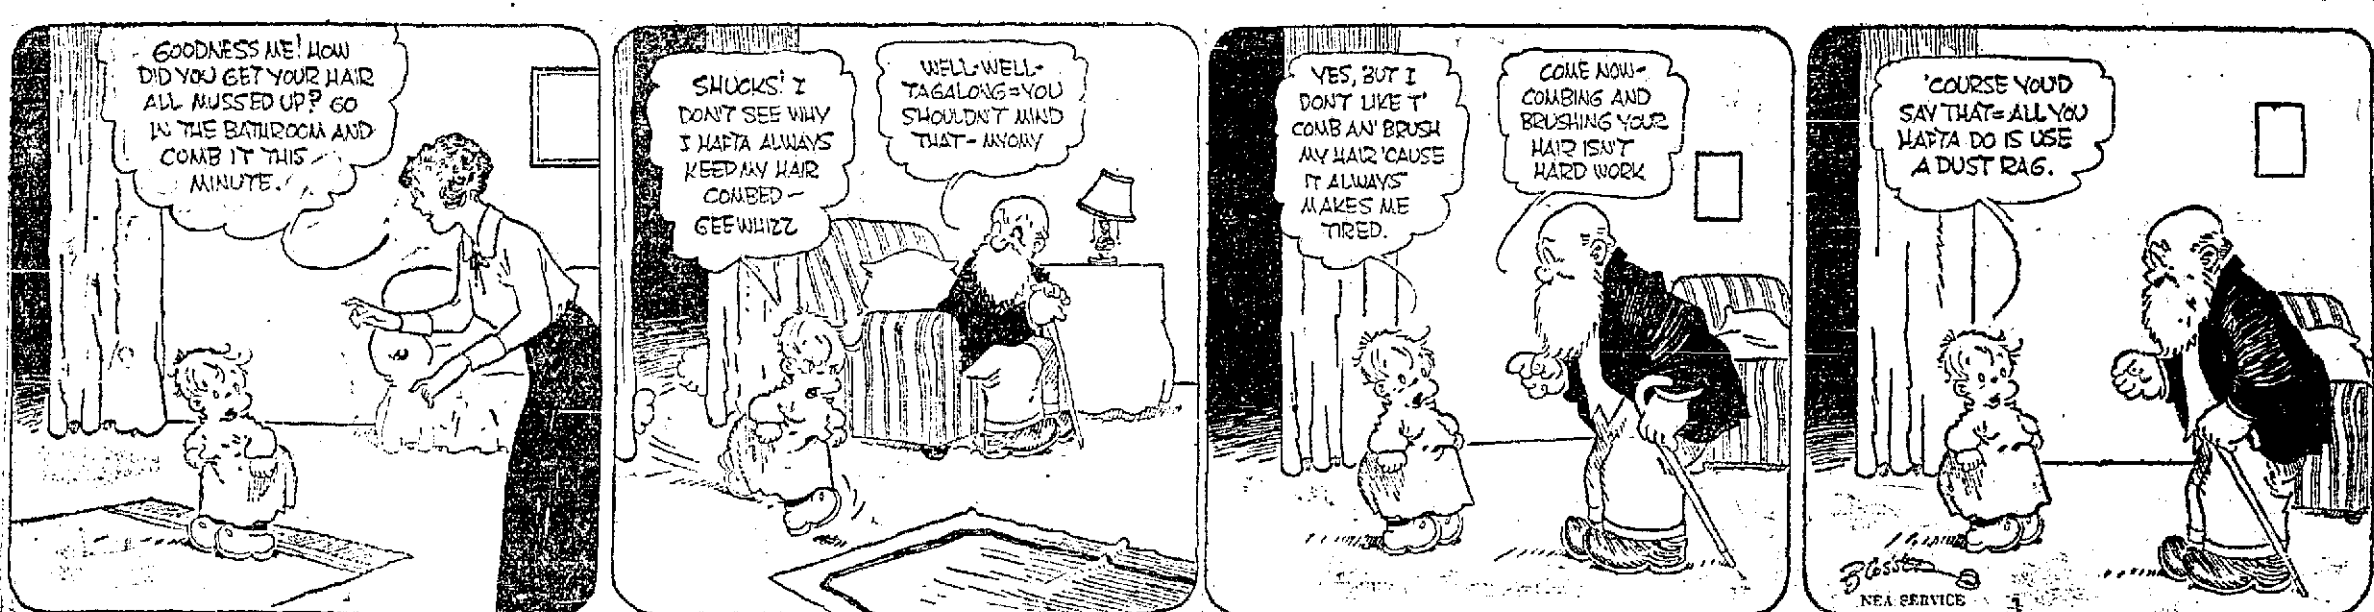

Frank Wulthorst reports a hunky horse refused to cross a bridge at Delphos.

All efforts to start it failed until a farmer blind-folded its eyes with his handkerchief. Then the horse started without protest. "But, of course," said the farmer, "it won't work with a flivver that balks."

had walking thru Franklin-st. A woman who didn't know English very well guessed that a sign on a house read "For Rent," or perhaps "For Sale."

She wanted him to go in and price it. He didn't. It wasn't a "For Sale" sign, but one which read, "Measles."

I. R. Longworth, attorney, reports that six men and six women were on a jury at Fremont.

The women jurors sat up and looked interested when one of the men jurors gave his occupation as housekeeper. When asked what he did when not keeping house he said he cut the lawn, raked leaves and in general kept up the yard. He would not admit that he was retired, but said diffidently that once he was mayor of Clyde.

J. R. Dugan has a friend who is very abundant. A young woman invited him to her club dance. He came the night of the dance. He was tired but he started his preparations for the occasion. In his abstraction, he followed the habit suggested by the act of taking off his coat.

Dugan says his friend continued undressing and went to bed, with the result that he didn't give the dance another thought until his mother asked him the next morning how he had enjoyed it.

George Newcomb, Wapakoneta, ordered a window screen. The first one didn't fit the window. He went back to the shop. The substitute fit but had a hole in it. "The third one," he says, "seems all right except the mesh seems hardly fine enough to keep out butterflies."

Is Your Work Hard On Your Kidneys?

Is your work wearing you out? Are you tortured with throbbing backache—feel tired, weak and discouraged? Then look to your kidneys! Many occupations tend to weaken the kidneys. Constant backache, headaches, dizziness and rheumatic pains are the natural result. You suffer annoying bladder irregularities, feel nervous, irritable and worn out. Don't wait! Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Workers everywhere recommend Doan's. They should help you, too. Ask your neighbor!

A LIMA CASE: John Martin, 205 S. Pine St., says: "Heavy work weakened my back. I had a sharp catch in my back, which took the ambition out of me and a dull, continuous ache had me in bad shape. My muscles were stiff and lame and I could hardly walk. Doan's Kidney Pills bought at Cunningham's Drug Store, relieved me."—Adv.

Bilious Attacks
Are Usually Due to Constipation

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot grip. Try it today.

Build to Endure with Certain-teed

If roofs could talk they would complain more of the hot sun than all the rain or snow which attacks them. Excessive heat, that dries and parches, is a very searching test of roofing endurance. The unflinching resistance of Certain-teed Roofing to this continual baking process is a most important factor in that thorough and-through quality which makes it impervious to rain, snow and sparks as well. Owners of every conceivable type of building, in every section of the country, can testify to the durability of Certain-teed. You, therefore, need not experiment; you may know in advance that you can "build to endure"—at a moderate cost.
